

ASSOCIATION OASIS

Economic pressure on natural resources is having an alarming impact. Sustainable development offers a more harmonious approach to resource exploitation, investment and technology, thereby laying the groundwork for a future in which we are better able to meet human needs. The industrial revolution in the western world led to an explosion in the global population. Some 250 years on, we now face an alarming situation. The planet is getting warmer, the environment is polluted, ecosystems are being destroyed, desertification continues at a worrying pace, and global inequalities are growing all the time. These factors pose a genuine threat to humanity's peaceful existence.
